Law Practice:

Wendy Margolis chairs the firm's appellate and litigation support practice group. Her practice focuses on civil appeals in state and federal courts and on providing litigation support to trial lawyers on legal and strategic issues that arise before, during, and after trial.

Wendy strives to achieve outstanding results for her clients through a combination of zealous advocacy and creative problem-solving and counseling. She has extensive experience in all elements of litigation support and is a skilled written and oral advocate, having argued multiple cases before the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, Oregon Supreme Court, Oregon Court of Appeals, and state and federal trial courts in both Oregon and Washington.

Prior to joining Cosgrave in 1995, Wendy was a judicial clerk for the Honorable Mary Deits of the Oregon Court of Appeals (1993-95). Before attending law school, she worked as a clinical audiologist in a private neuro-otology clinic.

Recent significant cases:

The Oregon Supreme Court held that the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S Constitution, as construed in Daimler AG v. Bauman, prohibits Oregon courts from exercising general personal jurisdiction over Union Pacific for claims unrelated to Union Pacific's business activities in Oregon. This is an important decision for out-of-state corporations that, like Union Pacific, have substantial business operations in Oregon but are incorporated and have their principal places of business elsewhere. (Barrett v. Union Pacific Railroad Company)

The trial court granted defense motion for directed verdict in favor of our hospitality client in $800,000 liquor liability case. (Blevins v. Whitefeather, Inc.)

The Oregon Court of Appeals upheld $439,000 jury verdict for our bicyclist client who was a licensee, not a trespasser, on defendant's property. (Currier v. Washman, LLC)

The Oregon Court of Appeals affirmed (without written opinion) summary judgment for our client on plaintiff's claims for wrongful initiation of civil proceedings and intentional interference with business relations. (Platt v. Snellgrove)
