Law Practice

Amber is a litigation attorney whose practice focuses on transportation, legal malpractice, and general liability defense. She represents insurers, motor carriers, transportation companies, businesses, and professionals in personal injury, wrongful death, premises liability, products liability, dram shop, and professional negligence cases.

In her transportation practice, Amber defends motor carriers, transportation companies, and insurers in personal injury, catastrophic injury, and wrongful death litigation involving commercial transportation and automobile-related claims. Her professional liability practice includes the defense of attorneys in legal malpractice matters arising from commercial and property disputes, estate-planning and probate matters, personal injury cases, and family law matters.

Amber represents clients throughout all stages of litigation, including written discovery, depositions, motion practice, mediation, arbitration, and trial preparation, and she has tried multiple cases to verdict in state court. Amber approaches litigation with a trial-ready mindset and works closely with clients and insurers to develop practical, efficient litigation strategies.
